TRUMAN ANGERED

BY RED MEDDLING

Nikita Khrushchev has said the climate for a new summit conference won't be present until a new United States president is elected.

Now Harry S. Truman answers him: "What seems to me to be more to the point is that the free world would breathe easier and be more hopeful that peace could be possible if Dictator Khrushchev were succeeded by someone capable of more reason and sense..."

In a copyrighted article appearing exclusively in (name of paper), the former president points out to the Soviet premier that "every world crisis we have had since the end of the war has been Russian inspired and Russian planned."

Truman's article, which will be read with interest by informed Americans, helps set the Cold War record straight.

TRUMAN SAYS FDR

WAS WARY OF REDS

Does Khrushchev understand President Roosevelt's true feelings toward Russia? No, says Harry S. Truman.

The straight-talking former president explains that long before Roosevelt journeyed to Yalta he had indicated misgivings about Russian intentions.

In a signed article, appearing exclusively in (name of paper), Truman tells why he kept up these suspicions--and how they led him to sign a peace treaty with Japan excluding the Russians.

This article does much to put Khrushchev's recent charges against America in their proper perspective.
